

One of the most specialised types of outdoor advertising is that which appears in office buildings.

With common features like field of activity, occupation, income and lifestyle, it engages active audience. It largely targets office goers who have the means to buy and are conscious about brands. The elevator, waiting rooms, and coffee shops in office buildings are "hot" spots where people spend a lot of time, hence targeting a niche audience.

Corporate marketing builds brand awareness, improves it, and fosters brand coherence. It is effective at advancing culture and drawing defenders and fans. It gives the impression that one knows what to anticipate from a company and the goods and services it is promoting. These advertisements can be shown in waiting rooms, waiting areas, and lobby areas, all of which will benefit your business.
